Introduction

On October 11, 1848, Chowan Baptist Female Institute opened its doors. As the name "Chowan" indicates, the institution is located in the northeast section of North Carolina, a portion of which was once occupied by the Chowan Indians. The name of this tribe was given to a county, a river, an association of Baptist, and through this association, to an institution.

The first recorded discussion concerning the establishment of Chowan Female Institute took place in April of 1848; yet less than six months later the institute opened its doors with a complete faculty, with adequate buildings and equipment, and with a creditable enrollment which grew through the school year to nearly fifty students.

The dream of a college for girls located in the bounds of the Chowan Association was envisioned from time to time, but it began to take definite form during an informal conversation after supper in the home of a Baptist deacon, Dr. Godwin Cotton Moore. On Friday morning, May 19, the Association took up an important item: The establishment by the Chowan Association of an institution of higher learning for girls. A full Board of Trustees was elected and instructed to obtain a charter from the next State Legislature. The Board of Trustees was authorized to purchase provisions and adopt all the arrangements necessary to carry out the plans for the Institute. The name which the Chowan Association decided upon for the School was the "Chowan Female Institute". The dream of Godwin Cotton Moore was realized. As a result, a new day dawned for hundreds of girls in northeastern North Carolina and southeastern Virginia, who had previously been forgotten in the matter of higher education.

The College was located in the old Hertford Academy building on Broad Street. Within three years McDowell Columns was constructed, and in 1851, the college moved there. The building serves today as the administration headquarters.

For sixty-two (62) years the institution was known as the Chowan Baptist Female Institute; in 1910 its name was changed to Chowan College. Until 1937 it was a senior college, but it was changed that year to a junior college.

Chowan College remained open during the Civil War, although a number of Southern Colleges closed. By the latter part of the 19th century Chowan was recognized throughout the south for its high standards in scholarship and culture. The Twentieth century brought continued progress to the college by way of additional buildings and equipment and the maintaining of traditional high standards. However, due to the shortage of students during World War II, the College closed its doors in 1913. Since its reopening in 1919, the college has experienced an unusual growth both in enrollment and physical facilities. It is fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

The first commencement was held on the present site in 1851. The campus then consists of 50 acres.

Chowan is old in tradition. Since 1880, the bell with its "bell tower" has been an integral part of life. If it could talk as well as ring, it might peel forth the legend of the Brown lady who haunts the campus on Halloween night; the story of the young confederate officer hidden in the watch tower and of the young ladies spreading their hoop skirts on the steps to prevent the Yankees from finding the hidden confederate; the story of the rumored insurrection, a phase of the Nat Turner rebellion, the shooting and burial of one of the rebellionists on the campus while the girls were gathered in one room for prayer; of all-day steamboat rides and picnics on the Meherrin River; of all-day commencements, with visitors arriving by boat and being guest of the Spencer House of the Boyette Hotel; of its famous presidents and educators as William Hooper, Archibald McDowell; of its first famous literary society organized in 1857; of the entrance, graduation, and return of its illustrious alumni; of its famous "Crow's Nest", for seniors only; and of all the numerous heartaches and joys that have been purred forth among its shaded walks and drives.

The purposes of Chowan College are expressed in the following quotation as established by its Founders. It is taken from the Catalogue of 1853-54:

"It is established for holy purposes: to discipline - mind; instrumentally, to sanctify mind; then to direct its strengthened energies. The latter are regarded as of paramount importance, as transcendent talent, without moral culture, produces only evil. That system of education is, therefore, radically defective, which neglects the heart. The true system contemplated a symmetrical development of all the faculties — physical, intellectual, and moral — and has regard to the whole sume of our existence."

Chowan now is 128 years old, proud of its history, tradition; both past and present, not content only to look back, but eager to look forward!

Perhaps the secret of Chowan's longevity is service to thousands of young men and women throughout its one hundred and twenty-eight years has been the exceptional strong leadership from its Presidents. Exemplifying this unique characteristic were the administrations of Dr. William Hooper, President, 1854-1862, who was the grandson of William Hooper, one of North Carolina's signers of the Declaration of Independence; Dr. Archibald McDowell, President 1848-1849 and 1862-1881; John C. Scarborough, President 1897-1909; Dr. F. O. Mixon, President 1951-1956; and continued today by Dr. Bruce E. Whitaker, who is in his 19th year as President of an institution which is serving its community, region, nation, and students in the proudest tradition.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF 1976

Volume XXXIII

Murfreesboro, North Carolina

Dedication

Each year the student body of Chowan College faces the difficult task of choosing the one to whom the CHOWANOKA will be dedicated. For the student body, this is the way in which they express their appreciation to the outstanding educators present on the campus of Chowan College.

The student balloting has resulted in a tie between two equally deserving men. Both have freely imparted their knowledge unto us and have unselfishly given their time and assistance to us whenever they were needed. We are truly richer for having known them and for having studied under their guidance.

One of these men, a graduate of Campbell College and East Carolina University, came to Chowan College in 1967. He is committed to the welfare of his family and is an avid huntsman and outdoorsman. Through his help, we have come to a better understanding of the very substance of life, and under his guidance, the difficult sciences have become simpler.

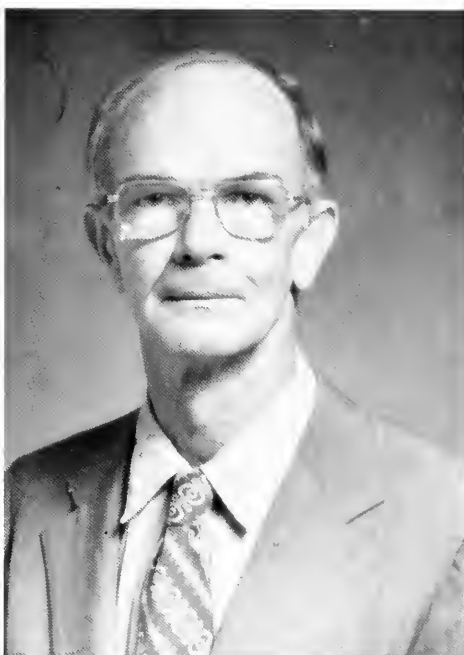

The other person we seek to honor is a graduate of Wake Forest University, Yale University, and the University of Edinburgh, coming to Chowan College in 1969. He is devoted to his family and a sports enthusiast. Under his direction, we have come to a greater understanding of the Bible and its teachings and he has helped us find the philosophical foundations of life and, thus, find meaning in our own lives.

Therefore, it is with pride and gratitude that we dedicate the 1976 CHOWANOKA to MR. GILBERT A. TRIPP, JR. and DR. EARL H. PARKER.

In the fall of 1931, Chowan College decided to broaden the field of service by opening its doors to young men. This measure was introduced also to ease a financial burden of the college.

As the times changed, the rules and regulations had to change too. In 1853, students were not allowed to visit the stores nor the post office, but obtain goods through their friends, and all purchases were to be approved by the lady with whom they boarded. In 1909, boarding students were not permitted to receive visits from young gentlemen, except upon the written requests of parents or guardians. Jewelry was also discouraged. In 1969, dancing on campus was not permitted by the college. Also in that year those students who neglected their studies, wasted time . . . were asked to withdraw. All of these rules have been done away with today. Our most recent change in rules concerns the women. Before March of 1976, girls had to be in the dorms at 11 o'clock, except upon written permission from their parents. For those students, the curfew was 1 o'clock. As of March 22, 1976, women have unlimited curfew. This rule was not changed because the college wanted to but because of the Equal Rights Amendment. Also this rule was not changed for abuse but so women could become more responsible for their decisions in terms of residence hall living. Women will be making more decisions independently, but hopefully based on wise and mature academic and social considerations.

The tradition of Chowan College that is most talked of is the Brown Lady. This is the story of a girl who died while in school. One tradition says that the spirit of loyalty to Chowan so pervaded her life that she returned again from the dead to test the loyalty of the students and to see if they had fallen away from the lofty ideals of Chowan. Also she returns to instill the spirit of loyalty in each freshman by an impressive ceremony.

Another tradition concerning the Brown Lady is contained in a poem by Mrs. R. Harry Underwood, a Chowan alumna who, along with other alumni, has kept the "Brown Lady" alive. The poem says that the Brown Lady is in love with a Southerner but he wants to fight for the North (in the Civil War). On the day he left, he said that he would return to her after the war was over. After the war, she got a letter saying that he had died in battle. The last stanza of the poem tells why the Brown Lady is still around:

"So if you hear rustlings of the stairs, thry the hall
Or see her go tripping thry the pines in the fall
Or, if by chance, you should see her one night
Stroll 'neath the pines in the melting moonlight
She'll be keeping her "tryst" with her lover, they say,
For she knows he'll come back as he promised that day."

The dress of Chowan students has changed right along with the times. Here are a few examples of the changes:

Summer Life

Chowan is alive and kicking during the summer with many exciting things happening. Things like the time the garbage truck rolled into the lake and the air-conditioning broke down in West and lots of other things that one's not suppose to know about.

There was a great feeling of unity and harmony among the college community this summer. Students relied on each other for entertainment and enjoyment. It was a time when the faculty, staff, and students merged and mutually learned from each others' experiences. There were many night time activities like watermelon feasts, the great homemade ice cream provided by Dean Lewis and the Pruett's, the tug of wars, and of course the talent show that was enjoyed by faculty, staff and students alike. Mostly, the nights offered a quiet peaceful time to sit and listen to sounds of living that were going on all around us.

Then, all of a sudden, the summer was over and students began returning to Chowan. One can remember that day especially well, seeing many people returning that swore they would never again gaze upon the white pillars of the Columns Building. One could even hear a few unexpected, "It's good to be back!" The long awaited return brought cheers and tears from the reuniting friends and lovers and there was a general feeling of excitement. Again it was time to get down to the business of trying to obtain an education.

Trying to figure out just who was insane when everyone appears to be a little off his rocker was the fun of "How Green Was My Brownie," a three-act comedy presented in McDowell Columns auditorium by the Chowan Players in November.

The production was under the direction of Duane Sidden, of Norfolk, in his first effort as head of the drama group.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The Baptist Student Union is a Christian organization of Students of all denominations. Its main purpose is to give a Christian influence to the campus community. The other activities the students are involved in are weekly Bible study meetings, biweekly visits to Pinewood Manor Rest Home in Ahoskie, weekend revivals during the spring semester, and the State Convention at Ridgecrest. The officers for this year are President, Ronnie West; Vice President, Dean Foster; Secretary, Lois Forbes; Member at large Richard Young. The organization is open to anyone who is interested in good fellowship.

Phi Theta Kappa is a National Honor Fraternity of American Junior Colleges. The Iota Delta Chapter of Chowan College is open to students who have attended Chowan College for a full semester and who have an overall B average. Students who meet those requirements are recommended by a faculty committee and are approved by the student members of the organization.

Chowan's Iota Delta Chapter of PTK does many interesting and rewarding activities during the school year. Members of PTK collected money or canned goods from Faculty and Students for needy families at Thanksgiving. PTK sold candy at the basketball games and will sponsor a fifty dollar scholarship to an outstanding foreign student.

The Leadership Conference, sponsored by Lees McRae College on October 16-18, was to prepare the regional officers for their duties at the Regional Convention. This year Chowan College holds the regional office of historian. This duty entails keeping a scrapbook of the North-South Carolina's regional activities and presenting this scrapbook for competition at the National Convention April 1-6.

PTK went to Wayne Community College in Goldsboro, North Carolina for the Regional Convention on February 20-22. This convention was a bicentennial celebration run by the regional officers. It encouraged participation and interest in the national level of PTK. At this convention Chowan College was elected to the regional office of Vice President for the 1976-77 year.

STUDENT ADMISSION REPRESENTATIVES

The SAR is a select group of students who work in the Admissions Office as hosts and hostesses to visiting prospective students and their families.

SARs are responsible for giving tours of campus, going on recruiting trips and personnel from the Admissions Office and generally assisting in the recruitment of new students to Chowan.

The SARs sponsored an evening of Christmas caroling after which they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bunch and Mrs. Charles Revelle, Sr.

While this organization serves many functions, its primary objective is to encourage the involvement of day students in college sponsored activities. The organization has official representation in the Student Government Association.

The Day Students sponsored several activities this year including: a float in the Homecoming Parade, peanut sales at football games, a dance, The Faculty-Staff vs Students Basketball Game, and a Cake Walk Booth at the Spring Festival. The proceeds of these fundraisers are put towards a scholarship which is awarded to a worthy Day Student at the end of the year.

Soccer is one of the fastest growing sports in our country today. I feel soccer at Chowan College has made a contribution to this growth through the organization of a soccer club. This club has made a lot of progress and has provided the foundation for a successful varsity sport. The young men who have made up our club this year have shown a great deal of dedication to the program and are looking forward to next year.

The staff of the 1976 CHOWANOKA has worked diligently to assemble a yearbook that will be truly outstanding. Two semesters of work went into the project, and we trust you will recognize the results of our efforts. The completion of this yearbook is certainly rewarding for each member of the staff, and we are pleased that all work was organized under "one cover".

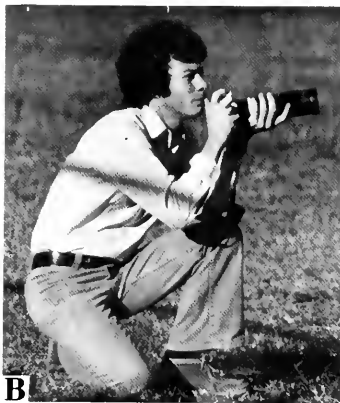

As the United States is observing 1976 as our Bicentennial year, the staff of the 1976 CHOWANOKA considered it appropriate to select a Bicentennial theme for this publication. The theme, a transition between the past and the present, will be found throughout our yearbook.

We are confident that the 1976 CHOWANOKA will meet with your approval, and a book you will treasure for years to come. And beyond this, we hope that the 1976 CHOWANOKA will serve as an incentive to the staff of 1977 and those years beyond.

The Chowan College Stage Band has given many concerts this past year. They included Roanoke Rapids, Littleton, and Ahoskie High School, in which they played for the Junior-Miss Pageant. They also made a TV tape in Washington (N.C.) Last of all concerts were given for the college where they kept many a student captivated.

The Touring Choir this year gave concerts in Wilmington, Littleton, and Murfreesboro. They made a trip to Washington North Carolina where they made a Christmas T.V. Tape. They also sang with the North Carolina Symphony in Charlotte.

The full choir gave two concerts which were performed on campus. One in the Fall and one in the Spring.

Alpha Pi Epsilon is the National Secretarial Honorary Society. It was established in 1933 at Los Angeles City College. The National Junior College Conference recognized Alpha Pi Epsilon as the official National Secretarial Honor Society in 1942. Chapters of Alpha Pi Epsilon are located all over the United States from Maine to California, from the Canadian Border to our southern shore line.

"The ultimate purpose of Alpha Pi Epsilon is to professionalize the status of the college-trained secretary. To accomplish this, it endeavors to send young men and women of the highest ideals into the business world, equipped with keen intelligence and a mastery of their skills."

"To be eligible for membership a student must have shown himself outstanding in all his college work; he must also possess the qualities of accuracy, dependability, and initiative. In selecting candidates for membership, the society seeks young people of character, intelligence, leadership, scholarship, and superior competence in secretarial subjects."

"The name, Alpha Pi Epsilon, is derived from the Greek letters denoting Accuracy, Dependability, and Efficiency."

The badge of Alpha Pi Epsilon is a Latin-scrolled gold key. The key signifies intellectual endeavor; the scroll, achievement; and the winged stylus, speed and efficiency."

The Alpha Pi Epsilon Chapter at Chowan College was established in 1957-58 with five members.

The Women's Recreation Association or W R A as it is frequently referred to, is an organization designed to foster and promote athletic and recreational activities among Chowan College women. All women students are considered members of the W R A and one becomes active through participation in its clubs or activities. W R A officers are elected each fall. The 1976 officers were: President, Lisa Dabney; Corresponding Secretary, Cindy Ward; Intramural Co-Chairmen, Vicki Ashburn and Annette Guyton; Special Events Co-Chairmen Mary Gooch, Carol Bean, Robin Lewis and Annette Guyton; Head Cheerleader, Donna Newsome; Faculty Advisor, Mrs. Janet H. Collins.

To be eligible for membership in the Monogram Club, the student must be a member of a varsity athletic team and participate in intercollegiate competition.

Membership in the Sociology Club is determined on a voluntary basis. Anyone interested in social relationships and groups interactions is encouraged to join.

The sponsor is Dr. John Gosnell, professor of Sociology and Psychology.

The activities which are made available to the club include donations of labor to the Chowanoke Area Development Association and the Day Care Center in Ahoskie, North Carolina, which is directed toward educating emotionally and physically handicapped children. Two fund-raising projects sponsored by the organization were a candy sale to raise money for the Sociology Club award given on Honors' Day, and a ticket raffle. The money collected from the raffle was contributed to the Chowanoka Area Development Association for the purpose of benefiting needy families.

Membership is decided upon a voluntary basis. Anyone interested in pursuing a career as a prospective teacher is welcome to join.

The sponsor is Mrs. Dell McKeithan, professor of English.

The main project made available to the club members is the opportunity to observe and participate in learning to teach, counsel and guide young children attending a local elementary school. A fund-raising project undertaken by the organization was a stationery and placemat sale for the purpose of providing playground equipment for the elementary school mentioned above.

Writing and editing stories, preparing page layouts, setting type, proofreading, paste-up of pages, shooting the negatives, stripping the negatives into flats, burning plates, printing the paper and finally, distribution of the paper. These are just a few of the processes and procedures that go into the production of a newspaper in this fast moving age of technology.

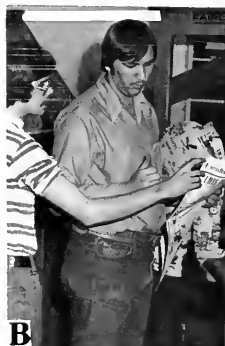

Smoke Signals serves a dual purpose. Its continues to provide experience in printing production for graphic arts and photography as well as serving as a medium for expressing opinions of the student body on popular topics. Smoke Signals also serves as a show case for drawings, prints, poems, cartoons, photographs and feature stories prepared by students in the various departments.

TRAILBLAZERS AND SGA

Chowan Trailblazers is a very active club, which involves students in one-day trips and overnight camp outs. The club plans to have bigger and better trips, which will include a trip to the mountains. Mr. and Mrs. James Dewar, professors in the department of science are the clubs' advisors. Officers for this year are: President, Stuart Dixon; Vice-President, Fred Utley; Secretary, Nancy White; Treasurer, Edward Hobeckis.

During the 1975-76 academic year the SGA has sponsored many social events for the student body. These social events have included the Homecoming Dance, a Sadie Hawkins Dance jointly sponsored with the Circle K Club, a Christmas Dance, and Back to School Dances for both the Spring and Fall semesters. Other social events have included movies such as "The Rievers," horror movies during Halloween week, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "The Sting," and "Airport." The SGA will also be sponsoring a Spring Concert this semester.

It has been a good year for the SGA to make progress in Chowan College and the organization has done its best to improve campus life as much as possible at Chowan College.

The officials of Chowan College were concerned about athletics from the very beginning. The early catalogues show that the faculty desired that the students take regular daily exercise. Classes in "physical culture" were offered within a few years, and regulations around the beginning of the twentieth century required that "in addition to the regular work of the Physical Culture Department, daily exercise is compulsory, and games are encouraged and supervised."

The campus was equipped with a basketball field and two tennis courts after 1900 and keen interest in basketball was maintained through intramural sports, there is also mention of games of basketball with other schools as early as 1918.

In the 1920's soccer was introduced to the girls at Chowan College. The new game met with enthusiastic reception among the student body and on September 25, 1923, the girls met on the athletic field to learn the first essentials of "girls' football."

With the admission of boys in the 1930's, a modification took place in the athletic program of Chowan College. The girls continued their Athletic Association and emphasized inter-class rivalry, while the boys organized teams in the major sports and competed with teams from other colleges. The general program for girls included tennis, swimming, soccer, volleyball, and softball during the fall; tap dancing and basketball during the winter; and a choice of tennis, swimming, minor sports, folk and character dancing, golf, archery, deck tennis, and badminton in the spring.

The boys at Chowan College quickly organized football, basketball and baseball teams and played nearby high schools and other colleges. Football began in the fall of 1933. In the spring of 1934 Chowan College fielded its first male baseball team.

Since 1949 Chowan has engaged in a full round of athletic events. The girls organized a Woman's Athletic Association to "encourage the spirit of play for its own sake and to work for the promotion of physical activities among the student body." Girls do not emphasize intercollegiate sports, but are offered softball, soccer, badminton, tennis, volleyball, basketball, and other sports in their physical education program. They have had basketball teams which played local high schools and other college teams.

The men at first emphasized football, basketball, and baseball. However, other sports such as track, tennis, and golf have their fans; and teams have been organized in these and other sports.

One of the high points in the football career of Chowan College came in the school year 1961-62. The Chowan "Braves" won every football game except one and were considered for an invitation to the Junior College Rose Bowl game in Pasadena, California.

Chowan's Football Team got off to one of its worst starts in history, losing six in a row before getting one in the win column. Chowan's football team had great hopes of picking up where they left off in the 1971-75 season when they finished with 8 wins and two losses, but this was not to be. The Braves were hit hard by graduation, but what really hurt was the loss of six outstanding players who did not return or were ineligible to play. These included three big defensive tackles and a starting linebacker along with two outstanding running backs. This, coupled with a never-ending list of injuries through the season led to a final 2-7-1 record.

Roy Etheridge kicks off and the game is under way.

Kevin Dalton and (Tito) Kenneth Koonce root their teammates on a fine defensive tackle.

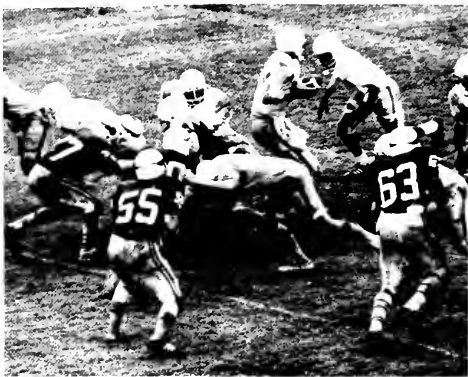

Coach Garrison paces on the side line as the defense performs.

The Braves put a ferocious rush on the opponent's quarterback.

Bingley Hannah side-lined with head injury.

The offense gets a chance to perform with Mike Bocock at the controls.

A lone Brave defense fears a rush.

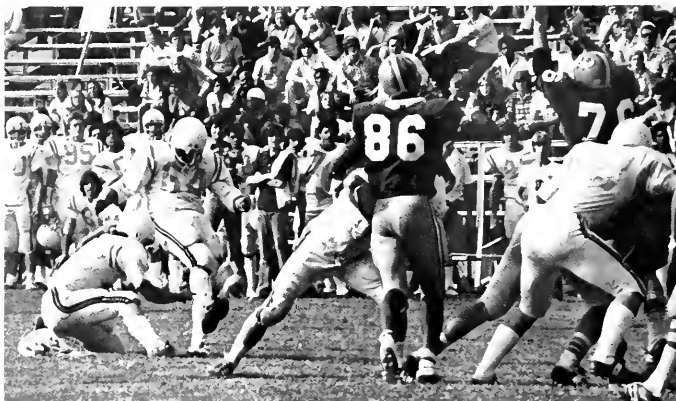

Coach Hawkins attends minor injury of Chester Ellis

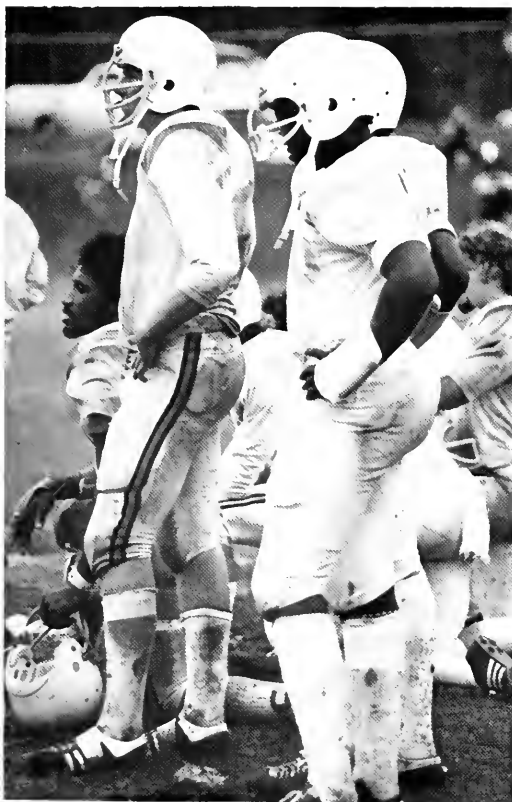

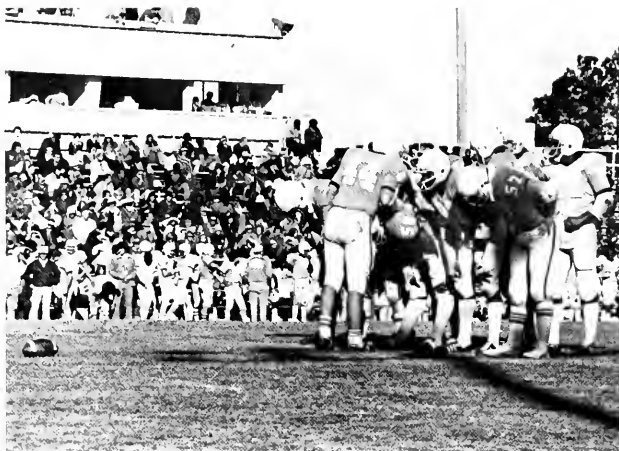

Dean Lowe enjoys a lollipop as he watches the game.

Mike Posternock holds the ball as William Hinton kicks the extra point.

The Braves had many young players in 1975, and the experience they received in the season just passed should be a great asset to them in 1976. Recruitment of several big offensive and defensive linemen, and some backs with exceptional speed, is the task of the coaching staff to supplement the returning players. The Braves were down in 1975 but are sure to improve on their 1976 season.

Bob Fink calls a play for the defense

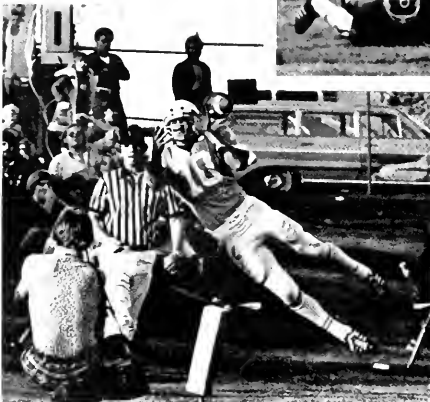

John Hruniuk benched with ankle injury

Teammates look on as they support fellow players on field.

Steve Abernathy makes a shoe string tackle with Bobby Little rushing in for assurance.

Rayford Petty digs for extra yards.

Jeff Dean stretches in an attempt to snag a pass.

Malcolm Brock, at side line, waits official's call.

Part of the excitement of every football game is the press box play-by-play action. Press box crew: Clock operator, Marion Bird assisted by Jack Chilton; Announcer, Clifton Collins; Radio Announcer, Warren Sexton assisted by David Guthrie; Spotter, Jack Hassell; Statisticians, George Tunner and Earnhart Joyner; Reporter, Phil Royce.

Boom!!! Mr. Fisher sounds his approval for another Brave's touchdown. If you haven't seen it, at least you've heard it. Much appreciation goes to Mr. Norris Fisher for the fine support he's shown the Braves at their home games.

Volleyball Team

The 1975-76 Women's Volleyball squad, had its problems throughout the season. They could manage to play one competitive contest in each match, many times coming within 5 points of an opponent or winning one game. They were led by Co-Captains Lisa Dabney and JoAnn Light and their hard work and dedication finally paid off. Their over-all record was 1-10, but they brought their season to a successful close at the State Volleyball Tournament. The 1975-76 Volleyball Team is the first to represent Chowan College in the NCAA State Volleyball Tournament; Chowan placed 2nd. Two girls placed on the All Tournament Team; Lisa Dabney and Kathy Stover.

Coach Roy Winslow

I would like to express my appreciation to the members of this year's cross country team for their dedication and hard work that resulted in a very successful season. It has been a real pleasure to have worked with a group of young men who displayed such great attitudes toward training, team work, morals and achievement. These are the qualities which have made these young men true "winners."

BRAVES BASKETBALL

CHOWAN BRAVES

Chowan basketball 1975-76 paced by Lonnie Payton, and Reginald Higgs inside, and twin guards Bobby and Billy Martin outside, righted themselves to put together another winning season. James Goffigan's double figure scoring assisted that of Payton and Billy Martin, thus ending the season with a 14-13 record.

The Braves went undefeated in five conference games at home plus another win in the first round of the Cavalier-Tar Heel conference tourney played at Chowan. No opponent held more than two wins over the Braves until Louisburg eliminated them in the semifinals of the conference tournament at Louisburg. The Braves finished No. 1 in the conference in team defense, No. 2 in team offense, and No. 2 in field goal percentage, though having the smallest club in the conference.

The 1976 Women's Basketball Team was the first to represent Chowan College in the Junior College North Carolina State Basketball Tournament. Although they did not come away with any awards, it was quite an honor simply to participate.

The 1976 Basketball Season gave us some problems. We ended with a 5-10 record, but we played a very tough, competitive season. Our problem was one of consistency. We never seemed to be able to get five players scoring and the three or four who did score, changed almost every game. We had a bench that worked hard and gave 100 percent effort whenever they were called upon. It was a difficult but good season, a learning experience for all of us.

Coach Nelson came to Chowan with the anticipation of having a good team and programmed the most competitive schedule since wrestling became a sport at Chowan. Unfortunately his expectations did not materialize as the team was forced to forfeit many weight classes and use four wrestlers as starters that did not wrestle in high school. The team was led by sophomores Marty Pilarski (177) and freshman Kevin Dalton (190). Coach Nelson will be counting heavily next year on freshmen lettermen Mike Cook (118), Stewart Philips (150), Tim James (158), Dwight Johnson (167), Jimmy Toon (177, HW), and Kevin Dalton (190).

In the early days Dr. Godwin Cotton Moore was given the responsibility of securing adequate teachers. As trustee of Wake Forest he was well acquainted with the work of that college, located about one hundred miles from Murfreesboro, and after an inquiry about possible graduates, the ability of one man caused his name to be given to Dr. Moore. This man was Archibald McDowell, and he was engaged by the the Board of Trustees as principal.

McDowell married one of the teachers of an all girls academy, Miss Mary Owens, and therefore the selection of McDowell as principal of the Chowan Female Institute brought not only a principal but also an experienced teacher. In addition, Mrs. McDowell's sister, Miss Sallie Owen, came as a teacher of music. Therefore, an experienced faculty who had worked together in the field of the education of girls came to operate the new school in Murfreesboro. Amos J. Battle completed the original staff of the Institute. He was engaged to serve as steward; that is, he was to care for the room and board of the girls of the Institute.

As the years went by, there was a need to add more faculty, staff, and administration members. Also some retired and there was a need for replacement. Members of the faculty are encouraged to continue their formal education, and each summer a large number engage in additional graduate study. In the summer of 1962, eighteen faculty members were engaged in further study, and two teachers were granted a leave of absence in 1962-63 for purposes of doing graduate work. Leaves of absence for the 1963-64 academic year were granted for further graduate study to three others, with some financial assistance to each by the College.

Today we have a faculty that is willing to help the students beyond just the academic studies and they will probably have an influence on Chowan's students for years to come.

CHOWAN COLLEGE:

Yesterday and Today

Although it may have been unknown to many of us, all current members of the Chowan College community have had the opportunity to "visualize" — to compare and contrast — what the campus was like in 1818-19 and what it is like today. Such a visualizing of past and present requires a trip to the corner of Broad and Sycamore streets, a little imagination, and some acquaintance with the present campus scene.

Stand on the corner of Broad and Sycamore streets and imagine 47 girls housed and attending classes in what is now the Melrose Woman's Club Building. Visualize the campus as consisting of what is now the lawn of that building. Then, take a look at the Chowan College campus as it is today — 11 major buildings neatly arranged around Jones Drive and spacious "Squirrel Park"; expansion to the south, including athletic and maintenance facilities, Carrie Savage Camp Hall, Parker Hall; and the scenic beauty of those wooded acres which constitute a major segment of the southeastern corner of our 235-acre campus. Such is illustrative of what time and history have made of the Chowan College campus over the past 128 years.

Imagine, further, that $\frac{1}{2}$ of that original student body of 47 students is engaged in studies in the "domestic arts" (music, embroidery, etc.) and that only one of those students who enrolled in 1918-19 had sufficient academic preparation to complete the collegiate program of studies. Contrast that situation with the current one: 1025 students engaged in pursuing some 41 different curricular programs leading towards diplomas and/or advanced degrees. Such is illustrative of what time and history have made of the academic program of Chowan College over the past 128 years.

The historical contrast can be seen in very sharp and clear focus when we look only at the beginning and at the present. But, running throughout that long course of 128 years has been a "common thread," a "tradition" — academic, religious, and social. It is that "tradition," with its constant appeal for academic excellence, religious awareness and commitment, and social development and concern which has motivated, and — in some sense — made possible the progress of Chowan College throughout these years. It is that multi-faceted tradition which has made us who and what we are today.

Chowan College is the great institution she is, today, because of students and others from the past who "cared" about the quality of her life. Chowan College will be an even greater institution of Christian higher education in the days ahead as those who share in her current life join the ranks of past student generations, and others, who "keep on caring" about their Alma Mater.

Faculty

If nothing else is great around Chowan, the academics are. The professors for the most part, take their jobs seriously. They are genuinely interested in the students. They make a personal effort to guide us in our endeavors to become "Upstanding" citizens. The faculty has office hours posted for college students benefit, and these hours are greatly appreciated. They not only offer an atmosphere of caring in the classroom, but they also take a genuine interest in the college itself, working for its betterment all of the time.

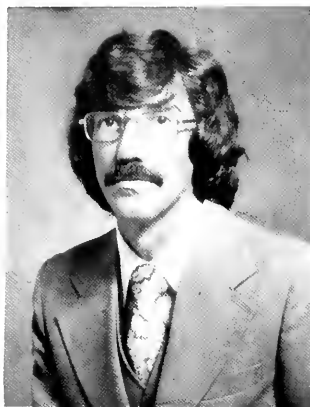

Library Faculty

Carol Sexton is an Assistant Librarian, and is now in her tenth year at Chowan College.

Timothy Coggins is an Assistant Librarian, and is now in his second year at Chowan College.

Geraldine Harris is the Head Librarian and is now in her tenth year at Chowan College.

Mrs. Undine Barnhill teaches in the Department of English. Along with growing flowers, she does some oil painting, sewing and reading. She has two grown children, three grandchildren, and four pets. She is an active member in church and enjoys working with young people.

Mrs. Betty Batchelor teaches English as a foreign language to international students and Spanish. Her favorite pastime is cooking for her family. She has been a member of the faculty for 15 years.

On October 11, 1848, eleven students registered at Chowan Female Institute. The eleven, however, were merely a foretaste of what was to come. One by one young ladies came to Murfreesboro by boat and by wagon until forty-seven had registered. By 1940, the enrollment of Chowan was about 200. Now in 1976, Chowan College has approximately 1,000 students. This includes students from the four corners of the world.

Many of the Chowan graduates have made contributions to the college as individuals and as a group through the Alumni Association. The graduates testify to the accomplishments of the school. They do this by coming back and giving talks to the Association.

One often underestimated contribution of a college is the preparation of its graduates for service in the home and community. To this day paintings are found in many homes in north-eastern North Carolina and southeastern Virginia which came from the work at Chowan Institute. As a result of the training at Chowan, therefore, many of the graduates have become outstanding homemakers.

Many graduates of Chowan College have been connected with well known people. Annie J. Ward, the first graduate of the Institute became the wife of John W. Moore, the famous historian of North Carolina. Anne Battle was the wife of the Rev. B. J. Harrell, a well-known poet and Baptist minister who wrote, "Ho, for Carolina." Elizabeth Marable, became the wife of I. B. Lake, the president of Roanoke College in Danville, Virginia. Amaret Reese, married Dr. P. R. Henson. Dr. Henson was a professor at Chowan for a number of years and served as a pastor in Philadelphia, Chicago, and Boston. There is a number of other graduates who have married prominent people but it would take another page to name them all.

In years to come there will be more people to graduate from Chowan who will be well known for one reason or another and we will be just as proud of them as we are of the past graduates.

Activities Off Campus

Chowanian students gather together in large groups, stuffed in various friends' cars and travel to "local" cities to find constructive recreation.

Bowling becomes a challenge as brain power is transferred into coordination between the jokes and clowning around in the lanes.

Canoeing in the streams and rivers bring nature lovers out as well as the hunters of wild game.

Then there are always movies to see off campus, malls to explore and get lost in, and also the outings to the roller skating and ice skating rinks.

Things People Do On Campus In Their Spare Time

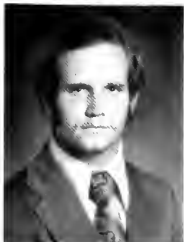

When one is not studying for that much-loved 3-page test he is destroying the whole library looking for just the right kind of information needed to get started on that detestable term paper, since it is due in two days, or running back and forth to regular classes and labs, he finds a little time to do the things he wants. There are always the skateboard dare devils who seem to be glued to them until they try that real tough stunt. Then one can always find a self taught mechanic trying to find that one knock that drives him up a wall. Other activities include frisbee throwing, football, or volleyball in Spinnel Park and of course, sunbathing behind Belk Hall.

Water Fowl

One aquatic sport that everyone loves is imitating the ducks at the lake after the rains come.

Swimming is taught to all students on the campus which one thinks is for just the ability to swim in case of emergencies outside of the campus. Later one comes to realize it is to be able to survive on campus during the monsoon rains.

When it rains it pours at Chowan. Squirrel Park becomes the local swimming hole for all the "duck" students and provides childish, but loving splash parties. Then one may find the ability to swim handy when going from the flooded hall of Jenkins to classes.

All in all swimming is a much needed course that later comes into use as a student at Chowan.

Seasons of the Year

College students are suppose to be children slowly maturing into intelligent, sophisticated adults. But the cafeteria staff brings the love of childish dreams to the hearts and attention of all.

At Halloween all the meals are served with a new touch; you may be handed your hot meal by a witch, a ghost, or another kind of scary goblin. The deserts are also Trick or Treat goodies.

At Christmas you expect to see Santa's sleigh coming in through the window any minute. A beautiful, sparkling tree encourages the all time "high" of the homeward bound students.

Men on the Hall!

"Men on the hall" aliens to the turf, the males curiously but cautiously enter the hall, examining each room with great curiosity, until one reaches one's destination. With open door and all feet on the floor, one now becomes a part of the attraction as other males and females peer into the room as they pass by. After a few moments of gazing into one another's eyes, the words "I love y——" flow off the males' lips, but is rudely interrupted by the R.A. boasting, "be sure to keep your feet on the floor and the door open." But one does not mind this, for it is open dorms, one of the most exciting and rarest events on campus during a given semester.

Registration Day

The beloved day of the beginning of a new semester brings students lined up to register for their classes.

Freshmen learn the art of standing for an hour to get in the door of Robert Marks Hall one at a time and be fed in like a computer or an assembly line, but runs like a burnt out steam engine. Sophomores learn early to help work during registration to keep from the boringness of two hours of trying to get into those classes you want to take with your buddies by registering before everyone else as a special privilege.

You have the opportunity to choose your professors and class times after a meeting with your advisor which gives you the farce impression your classes will be a dream, all set so you go to classes late in the morning or you will be out by noon.

Wash Day

Wash day is a time of meeting helpless people in the local laundromat. Novice students in the art of washing clothes learn how to wash their clothes without having their favorite floral shirt come out the color of their blue jeans. Those knowledgeable or taught by experience help those out that are completely lost on how to go about the "big" responsibility of doing their own laundry.

We all learn how not to depend on "Mom" to make sure we have something to wear for that "hot date" that just popped up.

Friends Come Back to Chowan to Visit

The regular everyday faces are seen around campus, but when old friends, who have passed from the regular score of students in attendance at Chowan, visit — happy days arrive.

Alumni often return to renew acquaintances and stir up some action on campus.

It is always good to see someone from the outside world enhance the campus for awhile and bring joy and sometimes tears to many.

Dreams of Home

It was the first day at Chowan for many of us this year. Taking one last look at our high school yearbooks wishing we could be there once again, the first day was filled with thoughts of home and the friends we had left behind. We were faced with the job of adjusting to new faces, and a different way of life. Most of the new students ended that day with a last word of encouragement from home, and hopeful dreams of the uncertain days to come.

Married life at Chowan seems to have more advantages than disadvantages. The Turnage couple, after being married for 6 months, said, "We are more free, because many rules of Chowan do not effect us now. With no curfew, room check, and no signing in or out, we feel we are no longer treated like children." The Schaefer couple said, "It's nice to have an apartment to relax in, a quiet place to study, a place where we can cook and eat whatever and whenever we want, and a place where we can be alone and away from things, yet close enough to get into campus life." Both couples agreed that they studied more and did not worry about how to spend their leisure time.

Mail

One service the Chowan students appreciate most is the college postal service. Everyone is delighted to find mail in their box even if it's nothing but a form letter from the college. The mail room has somewhat of a spell over all the students since in their first free moment everyone runs to their post box. As a matter of fact Chowan's postal service is more efficient than the government's.

Exams

It was time for exams and the students had to get down to studying all those courses they just weren't able to find time for during the semester. Panic and frustration set in and the students just didn't know where to begin. So after quite a few headaches the student decided to drop all that studying and just take his chances on the exams. Well, the day of reckoning finally came and everyone was on edge including the teachers since they didn't want to see the same faces again next semester. By some stroke of luck everyone came through it, no bruises just a few cases of brain strain!

Dress Code

The dress code was fairly liberal at Chowan. One's dress was never to be embarrassing or offensive to other students. On Wednesday, business students or students who had a business course were required to wear proper business attire. This included a dress or nice pants outfit for girls and suit and tie for boys. A familiar sight was boys pulling at their ties and girls struggling up the stairs with their dresses. After the last business class, there was frequently a mad rush to get back to one's room to that comfortable pair of jeans.

Work Study

The term work study is just what it implies. It allows students that are eligible to work at College. What it doesn't tell in it's name is the "FUN" that can be involved. The trick is to get the "JOB" that is the most fun. Good jobs such as a basketball referee, or student center helper, more commonly known as "Chief Pool Player."

Work study affords a chance to have money to buy books, among other things, and to have money to go home.

Making Friends

Making friends can be a job, so Chowan decided to make it easy for us. Standing by a tree with the name of one's hometown was the first idea they had. The next big event was the mixers dance. Everyone was able to at least make a new friend, if not find a dancing partner. But actually it was easy to make friends at Chowan. Since Chowan is a small college we could easily get to know everyone and their business just like a small southern town. Anyway the friends we made at Chowan were lasting ones.

Sign Out-Sign In

In order for the head resident to keep up with the girls under her supervision, they were required to sign in and out. Failure to do this was met with either a severe reprimand or a call-down. On weekend nights, a familiar sight was the girls scrambling for the one pencil in order to be the first to sign out on her card and leave. It was necessary to put the date, the time out, where she was going, and with whom. After finishing, the poor girl felt that she had just undergone FBI interrogation.

When going home, girls had to sign out on their weekend cards. One had to feel pity for the girl who forgot to sign out for the weekend. Improper sign-out and sign-in got her yet another call-down. The sign-out and sign-in policy was still another way to keep tabs on the fairer sex at Chowan.

Men and Women

You had come a long way, Chowan! One would never have guessed you were originally an institute for females. Now the number of men exceeds by far the number of women. This ratio was very popular among the "gals" but it did not excite the guys too much. Having to search around the whole dance in order to find a girl who was unoccupied would put a damper on any boy's ego. It was quite a different story from the girl's point of view. She never had to worry about whether she was going to get to dance. In fact, her dance card was booked up for the next three dances. The dating situation presented a problem, too. The boys had to ask at least two weeks in advance for a date for fear her social calendar had some other appointment at the time.

Parents Day

When Parents come to visit, the school puts it's "best foot forward."

The televisions are returned to the dorm lounges, the bathrooms are cleaned to a sparkling shine, the lawn is given a good raking, but best of all, good food is served in the cafeteria, with either Mr. Mulder playing the organ, or Mr. Robert Brown, and his band of renown. It's a great time in the life of the Chowan College students when Parent's Day finally arrives.

Chapel

All full-time regular students (those who carried 12 or more semester hours) attended the chapel-assembly programs. Freshmen attended on Monday and Sophomores attended on Wednesday to hear guest speakers, view movies and to be informed about the events to come.

Most of the students attended regularly because 6 unexcused absences result in suspension from the college.

Bicentennial Youth Debates

Trudy P. Cloyd, Michael R. Hillis, and Robert L. Walker represented Chowan College in the Bicentennial Youth Debates during 1975-1976. Each one was a winner. Trudy — first in district, fourth in sectional persuasive speaking, Michael — second in district, third in sectional Lincoln-Douglas Debates, Robert — fourth in district extemporaneous speaking. They competed against nine other colleges and universities. (Right)

This year Chowan had a new addition to its newspaper media. Under the Blanket, Chowan's underground newspaper, made its first appearance in January. Its motto was "You are what we are all about." The prime objective in printing the newspaper was to "present students' problems and complaints that were prevalent at Chowan as well as to offer some logical solutions." A few of the many problems and complaints they discussed were class attendance, required chapel, open dorms, girls' curfew, and breaking in the lunch line. As a result of the publication, students and administration have racked their brains this year in order to figure out whose feet were sticking out from under the blanket.

Under The Blanket

"You are what we are all about."

VOLUME 10 NUMBER 1 JANUARY 1975

Statement of Purpose

First of all, we are probably wondering where this newspaper is coming from. Why are we in the position of being able to get published by the Chowan College Administration? We, the authors, are concerned students who wish to express our views on the campus situation. We are not a student organization, but we are a student organization through our common goals.

The prime objective is to present students' problems and complaints that were prevalent at Chowan as well as to offer some logical solutions. We will present the "under the blanket" side of the campus situation. We are not an official student organization, but we are a student organization through our common goals.

We are not a student organization, but we are a student organization through our common goals. We are not a student organization, but we are a student organization through our common goals.

CHOWAN VS. D. & CONSTITUTION

In this last great conflict of ours, the administration that we are fighting for and the rights of the state will prevail. The administration that we are fighting for and the rights of the state will prevail.

The administration that we are fighting for and the rights of the state will prevail. The administration that we are fighting for and the rights of the state will prevail.

The administration that we are fighting for and the rights of the state will prevail. The administration that we are fighting for and the rights of the state will prevail.

and of peace, single present that the situation is not what it once was. The situation is not what it once was.

The situation is not what it once was. The situation is not what it once was.

The situation is not what it once was. The situation is not what it once was.

"Lunch Line Fever"

What is it that makes some people believe that they have the right to break into the line to get their food? The situation is not what it once was.

The situation is not what it once was. The situation is not what it once was.

The situation is not what it once was. The situation is not what it once was.

Closing

The officials of Chowan College are not content to rest upon the accomplishments of the past and present. They are planning and working for a greater future. Further increases in salary and quality of faculty members; advancement in quality educational offering; and increasing service in everyway to the people of northeastern North Carolina and southeastern Virginia are the general objectives for the future.

The newest buildings that Chowan has built are Parker Dorm for Men which was erected in 1970, and Carrie Savage Camp Hall which was constructed in 1973. The next improvement to the campus will be a new gymnasium.

Since the beginning of Chowan, the rules and regulations have changed just as the times have changed. In 1853, students were not allowed to open accounts with merchants, without permission from their parents or guardians, and all purchases must be approved by the lady with whom they board. They do not visit the stores nor the post office, but obtain goods through the agency of friends. All letters received pass through the hands of the principal; and where there is suspicion of a clandestine correspondence, the letters are enclosed to the parents or guardians, without examination. Also in that year they had a required uniform and were not allowed to wear jewelry.

In 1909 the government regulations read: "... Boarding students are not permitted to receive visits from young gentlemen, except upon the written requests of parents or guardians; nor are they permitted to spend the night out of the college ... Boxes of eatables, except fruit, are seldom desirable and may be returned. . ."

In 1969, "... Dancing on the campus of Chowan College was neither sanctioned nor permitted by the college.

Those students who neglect their studies, waste time. . . may be asked to withdraw. . ."

All of the above rules and regulations have been done away with now. Read over them again and try to realize how really lucky we are not to have to abide by those rules.

In 1976 a new addition to the regulations concerning the women had been added. Women now have the privilege of maintaining unrestricted dormitory hours. This new freedom was not changed because the college really wanted to, but to comply with federal laws prohibiting discrimination against women. With increased social freedoms, women students become more responsible for their decisions in terms of residence hall living. Women will be making more decisions independently, but hopefully based on wise and mature academic and social considerations. Within the limits of its ability, Chowan College will provide guidance and protection to all residents of the academic community.

With this in mind, we will close another year at Chowan College. This is a thought taken from Alan Ashley Pitt:

We travel along the road of life hardly knowing what we are, yet always daring to be something; seldom saying what we mean, but never afraid to have meaning; sometimes failing in our endeavors though never tempted to cease trying; seeking satisfaction at every level, yet never defining happiness; often apologizing for our existence, while realizing that life is its own excuse.

But the real joy of our otherwise insignificant efforts is that we are never quite satisfied to be on the left, or right, or in the middle of the road. We are always attempting to change its direction.

Bonfire made of obsolete sign in and sign out cards.

The 1975 Chowanoka is more than a cover with pages, copy and pictures. It's me alone in the office on weekends and seeing night turn into morning. I have let my school work go by and I have gone to bed worried that it wasn't going to turn out the way I wanted it to. I allowed myself to get so involved in carrying out the theme, that I found myself doing everything. I began to overlook the people who were supposed to be helping me. Doing this book just meant so much to me because it is my contribution to Chowan College and to you. My ambition was to make this yearbook one that would cover the year's events, include each student, and to make it a yearbook one would be proud to own.

Just as most yearbook editors have found out, I have discovered how "plain nice" people can be to an author fighting the long odds of deadlines. I would like to thank the scores of people who helped to meet these deadlines. And, among the scores, those that must be identified individually are: Rick Shuford, co-editor; Herman Gatewood, advisor; Charles Nelson, Jr., advisor; Undine Barnhill, proofreader; Wanda Byrum, copywriter; and a very special thanks to William Sowell, Sr., and Marianne Jackson for the long hectic hours that went along with the publishing.

May this yearbook be a memorial to my mother, who through death, went on to a better life, March 1, 1976. "Farewell Chowan--it's been a great two years. God bless you forever."
